International Market Wrap

A renewed wave of dip buying drove stocks to their best day since April in the wake of a technology selloff that had roiled Wall Street, with the market also gaining as oil prices sank. Following a drawdown in one of the world's most-crowded trades, a gauge of chipmakers jumped almost 7%. The S&P 500 rose 2.35%. The Nasdaq 100 added 3.4%. That's despite a 4.3% slump in Nvidia amid an investigation into Chief Executive Officer Jensen Huang after his admission of an affair with a woman identified in a series of reports as a suspected Chinese spy. "For now, the market is showing the resilience needed to turn last week's weakness into another buying opportunity," said Mark Hackett at Nationwide.

Otjikoto produces 70,000 ounces of gold in nine months. B2Gold's Otjikoto mine in Namibia produced 70,000 ounces of gold during the first nine months of 2026, while the company lowered its full-year all-in sustaining cost guidance to between US$1,630 and US$1,780 per ounce sold, according to its third-quarter operational and financial report. The mine's nine-month production declined by 52.7% from 148,000 ounces recorded during the corresponding period in 2025. Export readiness, trade finance constraints hinder Namibia's AfCFTA participation. Limited export readiness, inadequate access to trade finance, fragmented market information and complex regulatory requirements continue to prevent Namibian businesses from fully benefiting from the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA), government and United Nations officials said on Monday. Speaking at the launch of Namibia's Step by-Step Guide to Trading Goods under the AfCFTA in Windhoek, officials said businesses continued to face difficulties navigating export procedures, meeting product standards, securing buyers and accessing logistics services, despite preferential access to continental markets. – The Brief

More testing for Uranium One. The International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) has called for additional groundwater investigations at Uranium One's proposed Wings uranium project near Leonardville to establish whether chemical solutions used in mining can be prevented from spreading into neighbouring groundwater sources. The agency found that Headspring Investments, the company developing the project, has not provided sufficient field evidence to demonstrate that the uranium-bearing Auob aquifer is adequately isolated from the overlying Kalahari aquifer, which contains potable groundwater. The finding is among the most significant concerns raised in an independent technical review commissioned by the Namibian government to assess the environmental impact assessment and management plans for the proposed pilot uranium recovery operation in the Omaheke Region. – Market Watch

Namibia Dairies invests N$54.5m in long-life milk production line. Namibia Dairies has invested approximately N$54.5 million in a new long-life milk production line capable of packaging up to 8,000 units per hour, as the company seeks to improve production efficiency and meet growing demand for locally produced dairy products. The investment involves the installation of a Tetra Pak A3 Flex filling line, replacing equipment that had been used for more than 15 years to package Namibia's only locally produced long-life milk. The new production line includes a conveyor system, helix accumulator, cardboard packer, advanced cap application technology and supporting packaging and handling equipment. – The Brief

South Africa's ANC to review coalition ties after voting setback. South Africa's biggest political party will consider whether to end its national coalition with its main rival after suffering its worst electoral performance yet, an argument that's emerging as a fault line in the race to succeed President Cyril Ramaphosa. Some members of the African National Congress' national executive committee are discussing how to make the case at a meeting on Thursday that the party's tie-up with the Democratic Alliance in 2024 cost it votes in last week's municipal elections, and that it should end, according to people familiar with the matter. A previous push within the ANC to jettison the DA failed, and it's unclear how much support the proposal would have this time around, they said.
